Summary of reasons for decision:

The computer image file explicitly depicts sexual activity involving a young man and two older men. The Classification Office has considered whether the image promotes or supports, or tends to promote or support, the exploitation of young persons for sexual purposes in terms of s3(2)(a) of the Films, Videos, and Publications Classification Act 1993, but concluded that it does not. The young man may be aged in his late teens or early twenties, but in any case does not unequivocally present as a young person. The photograph explicitly depicts sexual activity, with the purpose of sexually arousing the viewer. Such material is inappropriate for children and young persons and is likely to be shocking to them. There is potential for harm in exposing young people to sexual material before they are developmentally ready, as it may negatively affect their development of sexual attitudes and behaviours. A mature understanding of sexual matters is required to contextualise the image. The computer image file is therefore restricted to adults. While this restriction limits the right to freedom of expression as provided by the New Zealand Bill of Rights Act 1990, it is considered reasonable and demonstrably justifiable in the interest of preventing likely injury to the public good.
